

Kandy

Domestic Violence Program Director

Kandy has been with Southside Center for Violence Prevention (SCVP) since 2009 and has held the positions of Intern and Child, Housing, and Community Outreach Coordinator. She became the Domestic Violence Program Director March 2011.

She holds an Associates of Applied Science in Human Services from Southside Virginia Community College and a Bachelor of Science degree in Psychology from Northwestern State University of Louisiana. Currently, she is completing her Master of Science in Clinical Mental Health Counseling from Capella University.

Over the course of her career with SCVP, Kandy has focused her attention not only on Domestic Violence but also on Child Abuse, Elder Abuse, and Domestic Violence within cultures. Kandy participates in several Multidisciplinary Teams and community coalitions across the agency's service area. In addition to her main areas of interest Kandy sits on the Professional Standards Community for the accreditation of domestic and sexual violence programs across the Commonwealth of Virginia.
